

*To walk in the light together
On different paths, but common in cause;
To bind into one our powers
To overcome the sum of our flaws,*

*We walk together in the light
That we may stand firm and steadfast
In the dark of night.*

*When one hand will grasp another,
The pilgrims two will now be as three.
The comfort they find is sacred,
For in their midst the spirit will be.*

*We walk together in the light
That we may stand firm and steadfast
In the dark of night.*

*The gifts I bring are modest and few.
I'm a single leaf shimmering
 between the sun and sand,
A crystal drop of rain
 falling on a parched land,*

*And all I have I lay with yours.
And all I have I lay with yours.*

*We walk together in the light
That we may stand firm and steadfast
In the dark of night.*
